[237. Piyālapupphiya¹]

I was a deer-hunter back then, within a grove in the forest.
Having seen a piyal² flower
I tossed it on the traveled road.³ (1) [2450]

In the thirty-one aeons since I did $p\bar{u}j\bar{a}$ [with] that flower, I've come to know no bad rebirth: that's the fruit of Buddha- $p\bar{u}j\bar{a}$. (2) [2451]

The four analytical modes, and these eight deliverances, six special knowledges mastered, [I have] done what the Buddha taught! (3) [2452]

Thus indeed Venerable Piyālapupphiya Thera spoke these verses.

The legend of Piyālapupphiya Thera is finished.

^{1*&}quot;Piyal* flower-er"

²piyāla (Sinh. piyal) is buchanania latifolia.

³this could mean the road traveled by the hunter, but given the indication that this was a very meritorious act, more likely the implication is, "tossed it on the road which the Buddha [who thirtyone aeons ago likely would have been Sikhi Buddha or perhaps a Lonely Buddha] had traveled along".
